

Family Migration

Child Visa – SC101

SC101 is a permanent visa that allows an eligible parent to sponsor their child to live in Australia. Importantly, the sponsored child can include their own dependent children in this application. Note: The child must be outside of Australia when the application is lodged and granted however the sponsoring parent does not need to be in Australia at the time of the SC101 Child Visa application.

The Child Visa (SC801) would suit you if YOUR CHILD:

- is outside of Australia
- is younger than 18 years of age, a full-time student between 18 and 25 years of age, or is unable to work due to a disability and dependent on the sponsoring parent
- is single (does not have a spouse, is not engaged to be married, and does not have a de facto partner)
- has no outstanding debts, or has arranged to repay any outstanding debts to the Australian Government
- is sponsored by their parent or their parent's partner (and who is also classed as an 'eligible' parent)
- meets the Department's health and character requirements.

What is an 'eligible parent'?

Someone:

- who is an Australian Citizen, or
- who holds a current Australian permanent resident visa, or
- who is an eligible New Zealand Citizen

- who is the biological parent of the child, the adopted parent of the child, or a step-parent who has a legal responsibility to care for the child.

Other requirements of an eligible parent / sponsoring parent:

- The laws of the child's home country permit the "removal" of the child
- You have the written consent of each person who can legally decide where the child lives
- This arrangement is consistent with any Australian child order
- You meet certain character requirements
- You will support the child and meet their living needs and accommodation, and not rely on welfare.
