The Prospective Marriage Visa – SC300

The Prospective Marriage Visa (SC300) is the ideal pathway to marriage and permanent residency in Australia for people who want to come to Australia to marry their prospective spouse.

Key matters:

- This visa is only temporary and is valid for 9 months.
- The 9 months begins on the date your visa is granted.
- You must be outside of Australia when you lodge your SC300 Prospective Marriage Visa application and you must remain outside of Australia when a decision is made on your Prospective Marriage Visa application.
- When your SC300 application is granted, you can enter Australia. Once in Australia you must marry your intended spouse (your fiancée) within the time-frame of the visa.
- Once you are married, you must lodge your Partner (SC 820 and 801) application before the expiry of your Prospective Marriage Visa if you wish to remain onshore in Australia.
